

NO identification band

NO transfusion

Right blood, right patient, right time

FOR PATIENTS RECEIVING A BLOOD TRANSFUSION

All patients must wear an identification band.*

All patients must be positively identified and must match the details on the identification band.*

All core identifiers on the identification band* must match the details on the blood component label.

Ref: BCSH (2009) Guideline on the Administration of Blood Components
RCN (2013) Right blood, right patient, right time

Produced by the NHS Blood and Transplant Patient Blood Management Practitioner Team, based on the original poster developed in conjunction with the Welsh Blood Service and National Patient Safety Agency 2008.

Further copies available from: <https://hospital.nhsbtleaflets.co.uk/>