

The Update for March 2025

Redesigned Therapeutic Apheresis Services' (TAS) webpages

Launched this month

The TAS section on the Hospitals and Science website has been redesigned and the webpages upgraded to be more user-friendly, and accessible.

The referral process for patients to access TAS therapies has been redesigned from a user's perspective, making the process for clinicians quick and easy to follow.

An invitation to visit the Transfusion Training Hub Educational resources and training for blood transfusion, all in one place

The Transfusion Training Hub supports education and training for healthcare professionals working within blood transfusion and provides links to resources.

The hub is now celebrating its first year, and we're pleased to announce over 28,000 people have viewed it since its launch last April.
